Séance de nuit. Passé sept heures du soir, les petits ne se hasardent pas à sortir de la salle sans les grands. [Night session. In the evening after 7 o'clock, the little one is afraid to leave the hall without the big one.] from the series Physionomies de l'Assemblée [Parade of the Deputies], number 23, published in Le Charivari

published February 23, 1850

Primary Maker

Honoré Daumier

Medium

Lithograph on newsprint

Description

There are two images on this print, stacked on top of each other. In the top image, two caricatures of men with really large heads sit at desks. Although there is a chandelier, most of the scene is in the dark, and the figures of other people sitting at desks are only barely visible. In the bottom image, the two main men that were sitting at the desks in the first image are now walking along a hall, and their shadows are projected on the wall next to them. One of the men is much shorter than the other.
